Lungs

Two separate parts, two points.
Cannot see each other.
First journey distance exchange.
Message received.
Link-up made.

From A to B to A to B to A.

Further explorations and possible deviations.
This activity is mirrored so development follows each other.
An awareness of other.
But each own's way.

Network B to C to D to C to E.

More journeys and expeditions are made
so that a shape grows supported by distance/time travelled.
Strengthened by knowledge.
Blow. Now breath.

Imagine the drawing of invisible nodes
working together, to form two entities.
Symetrical.
What was once two separate parts now join.
The Lungs
they pulse with light.

Andrew Gryf Paterson, original text 1998, restructured 1999,